

"There is one remedy I always keep in the house, and that is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It helps my digestion wonderfully and as a laxative it is pleasant and dependable." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mr. J. N. Kidd, Bella, Texas.)

From youth to age the greatest menace to health is constipation, which retards digestion and disturbs the entire organic system. To relieve constipation a mild laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is preferable to drastic cathartics and purgatives, the violence of which shock the system unduly.

WEST THOMPSON

Mrs. H. Ramsdell is improving at a hospital in Worcester, where she went for a surgical operation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sprague are at the home of Mrs. Byron Tefft for the winter, to be cared for by Mrs. Tefft.

George Tefft is ill. Friends of Miss Edith Sandstrom learn she has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to be on duty again at the hospital in New York.

Miss Millie Kearnes died in Worcester last week from influenza. She formerly lived here.

Rev. Mr. Miller has moved to East Thompson and will hold a service at the West Thompson church Sunday when the weather permits.

Mrs. Ralph Davis, who died from pneumonia following influenza, Mr. Davis and one child were very ill at the time, but both have improved.

Mrs. Davis leaves her husband, four small children.

ASHFORD

The community was saddened on Saturday morning to hear of the death of Albert Green, of Phoenixville, who died with pneumonia. His wife died a little over a year ago after an operation from appendicitis. He leaves two sons, Roland and Floyd. He also leaves five brothers, Arthur, Walter, Archie, Harry and Edmond; the last named is seriously ill at his home in Phoenixville with influenza. He leaves a sister, Nellie Green, in Rockville.

Mrs. John Greene has returned to Providence after spending the summer at the lake.

Thomas Pitts is spending a few days in Willimantic.

Frank and Charles Irons of Manchester are staying for a few days at Samuel Bates.

Walter Green is confined to the house by rheumatism.

Misses Inez and Alice Whittemore are visiting at Frank Greene's, as their schools in Providence are closed on account of influenza.

Thomas Colburn who has been ill with influenza is improving.

STAFFORDVILLE

Newell Delphia, 75, died at the Johnson hospital Saturday night after an illness of eleven months from a shock. He was twice married but is survived only by a brother in California. The funeral was held at the M. E. church Monday at 10 o'clock. Mr. Von Deck officiated. Burial was made in the second lot at Staffordville cemetery.

A number of people are ill with influenza.

Mrs. Albert Skinner and son of Bolton are with the former's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Von Deck for a few weeks.

Union services have been held in the Congregational church for the last three Sundays. Next Sunday the pastor's subject will be The Blessedness of a Burden.

Philo West has been spending two weeks with his son, Herbert West and family in Philadelphia.

Mrs. John Rishon is with her daughter, Mrs. Lila Rishon Tallman in Worcester this week.

An educated fool is more foolish than an ignorant one.

WESTERLY

Billy Sunday was in Westerly for a few hours Friday, and Westerners surely did show appreciation of the presence of the great evangelist, who made a side run from Providence where he is conducting a campaign for the betterment of man. The banks, the stores and the factories, suspended business long enough to give all who desired an opportunity to see and hear this really wonderful man. He spoke at the Bliven Opera house, which was comfortably filled at 12:15, the time set for Mr. Sunday to deliver his famed discourse against booze, entitled Get on the Water Wagon. Rev. Samuel H. Davis presided at the session and presented the speaker.

Just as Mr. Davis finished, the gentleman known years ago as "the converted hawker of player," made a dive for the front of the stage as if he was about to pick up a grass cutter, then straightened up and took his position back of the reading desk, and commenced his anti-booze sermon. He scored the rum business unmercifully with official figures and other indisputable facts in regard to the damage done by the liquor traffic, but there was lack of that dryness that prevails during the ordinary discussion against the business by the average total abstinence prohibition orator.

What Mr. Sunday lacks in volume of voice he more than balances by his emphatic gesticulation, an earnestness that is impressive and creates the closest attention so that every word could be heard in all parts of the big opera house. He struck at the saloon and all that pertains thereto right from the shoulder and referred to the saloon men in terms of deepest contempt, using slang terms in his pleurizations that could only have origin in such dens of iniquity as he described. He handled the subject in Westerly in the same style, and perhaps as the same words, that he has many times elsewhere, and at times rattled off words with a spaces that would have baffled the concentrated effort of a dozen expert stenographers.

Probably the most interesting words in his talk of an hour that the ordinary public speaker could utter in two hours, and not a word was missed by his auditors, so clear was the enunciation.

Mr. Sunday formally opened the no-liquor campaign in Westerly, under the auspices of the no-liquor committee, and is the beginning in a series of meetings to be held preceding election day. Mr. Sunday's only local reference was his assertion that he would vote for a candidate for the legislature who favored prohibition and for no other, and it would make no difference to him whether the candidate was a republican or a democrat.

Prohibition was made the issue at the recent caucus of the republicans of Westerly. Though neither candidate for the state senate was a prohibitionist. The pros wanted the renomination of Albert H. Langworthy and the anti-favored Maurice Flynn. It was the largest caucus ever held in the town, fairly conducted, and Mr. Sunday's presence was a great help.

Mr. Sunday was called here to defeat liquor license, and defeat Maurice Flynn, the regularly nominated candidate of the republican party for state senator from Westerly.

One prominent in prohibition work said Friday afternoon: "You're right; Billy Sunday was called here to defeat liquor license, and defeat Maurice Flynn, the regularly nominated candidate of the republican party for state senator from Westerly."

Clerk Clarence E. Roche, in the absence of Judge Oliver H. Williams, presided at Friday's session of the Third district court in Westerly. There was but one case on the docket, a book account and that was continued for proof of claim. A new writ was entered and it was rushed through to completion in less than a minute.

Judgment was rendered and execution issued forthwith. It was the case of Frederick J. Mackowicz brought by Judge Herbert W. Rathbun, against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, a claim of damages for injuries received, and the court action made the settlement complete. The plaintiff claimed $35 and the railroad company paid that amount.

Last July at the railroad crossing in Wood River Junction a vehicle in which the defendant was an occupant was struck by the fourth car of a freight train, and he was injured and taken to the Rhode Island hospital. It appears that the crossing train was absent from his station and there was no warning of the approaching train.

Mrs. Bertha Parmelee entertained the members of Evergreen camp, Royal Neighbors of America, at her home in Providence, Providence, in honor of Mrs. Evans, just on the organization. Mrs. Davis' marriage with Alfred H. Pollock, of New London, a supervisor of the Brainerd & Armstrong silk mill, will soon take place. In behalf of the camp Mrs. Howard Danphens presented Mrs. Davis a Madeira luncheon set.

George Clark Wells, 75, who was born near Ashaway, died at his home in Farmington, Oct. 3, 1918. He was educated in local schools and in Alfred university. In July, 1892, he enlisted and served for three years in Company A, Seventh Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, and was wounded in the right hip at Fredericksburg. After honorable discharge and muster out he was engaged as a mechanic in the Cortrell press works. Westerly. Subsequently he went to Farmington engaged in farming on a large scale. He leaves his widow and three daughters.

At the annual meeting of the Southern Rhode Island Farm Bureau, held in Westerly, it was decided to defer the election of president. The officers elected are: B. A. Walpole, vice president; T. De Coppel, secretary; D. Howard, treasurer; W. H. Godfrey, O. C. Straight, G. E. B. James, Mrs. H. G. Saneana have purchased from William Rowland a house and lot on Diving street.

There will be a game of football on Owen field this afternoon between a team representing the Norwich Y. M. C. A. and the Stonington high school team.

John H. Ryan, Jr., and George F. Weeks have been sent from Fort Slocum to the officers' training camp at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Rev. Henry A. Blake of Westerly, a former pastor of the Congregational church, was the guest of Hon. E. S. Day Wednesday.

Miss Jennie Mintz left Wednesday for a few days' visit in New London and New York.

The amount subscribed in town for the Fourth Liberty loan was $50,730, the quota being $41,800.

James C. Usher, 81, died at his home in Westerly Thursday morning. The funeral will be held today (Saturday) at 10 o'clock. Burial in Westchester cemetery.

Word was received here Thursday of the death of Private Henry Taylor, 26, at the camp in Georgia. He went to camp in June. His body was brought here today (Saturday) for burial. He is survived by his father and a brother, both of Colchester.

The state guards held their drill in the Grange hall Thursday evening.
